Resale Services

6. Resale and Sharing

6.2 Regulations

6.2.1 Restriction

- A. Class of Customer— This is a restriction contained in the primary tariff for a particular resold service (or in the general rules and regulations applicable to that tariff) that limits the availability of the service to a particular type of customer, such as a business customer, residential customer, carrier customer, end user customer, lifeline-eligible customer, etc.
- 1. Where a resold service is subject to a class-of-customer restriction, the reseller may not resell such service to any customer not in the relevant class. However, the reseller may purchase the service for resale to a customer in the relevant class, whether or not the reseller itself is within the class.
- a. Notwithstanding Section 6.2.1A1, business services may be resold to residence end users so long as the end user is served by a business exchange line and so long as all other services provided on that line are also under the business class of service and appropriate business rates.
- 2. Where a reseller resells a service purchased under this tariff to another person, and such other person is itself a reseller rather than an end user, the reseller purchasing from the Telephone Company must require its end users, by tariff or contract, to conform to any applicable class of end user restrictions and all other requirements of resellers under this tariff.
- B. Use of Telephone Company Brands— Unless the reseller has the expressed written authorization of the Telephone Company, the reseller is not allowed to offer resold services to its customers under any of the brand names of the Telephone Company or of its affiliates; and the reseller may not state or imply that there is any partnership or other joint business arrangement with the Telephone Company for the provision of services to the reseller's customers.
- C. Flat Rated Services— A reseller may not aggregate the usage of more than one of its customers on a single resold flat-rated telephone exchange service line.
