3.1.5 Prepayment for Extension or Reinforcement of Mains

Should an extension or reinforcement of the Company's mains be required to serve the Customer's premises, and two-years' estimated revenue from the Customer connected to such main be insufficient to justify the expenditure involved, the Customer will be required to make a prepayment covering the estimated cost of such main extension or reinforcement in excess of the estimated two-year revenue. Estimated revenue is the estimate of the total revenues from the Customer for service from such main extension or reinforcement, less revenues attributable to the Increase in Rates and Charges, less fuel adjustment revenues, and less the base cost of fuel, all as provided in this Rate Schedule. The estimated cost of construction will be based on the size of main required for the service requested but in no event on less than the estimated cost of an 8-inch main. The estimated cost of construction hereunder shall include, where applicable, the cost of a service line and service equipment. During the first ten years starting from the date when service is first supplied, the prepayment will be repaid to the Customer, without interest, in monthly installments equal to one-tenth of the amount of each bill for steam supplied to the Customer and to any other Customer connected to such main extension by a service. The unrefunded prepayment, if any, remaining at the expiration of the said ten-year period or at the end of a lesser period in the event that the use of steam is permanently discontinued at the Customer's premises will be retained by the Company. The Customer or Company may apply to the Public Service Commission for a ruling as to the necessity for, or reasonableness of, the prepayment required.
