ARTICLE VII – DISPATCH

7.1 Customer shall give company a notice (a "Nomination") not less than four hours prior to the TCPL Nomination Time applicable to the first Day (the "First Delivery Date") on which gas will be tendered for receipt by company under this Service Agreement and in such notice will specify and nominate the quantity of gas (the "Nominated Quantity") that will be received by company from customer on each Day in the Term. The first Nomination given shall specify the First Delivery Date. The Nominated Quantity in any Nomination shall not be greater than the Average Daily Transportation Quantity.

The TCPL Nomination Time applicable to a Day is the earliest time on or before which, in accordance with the terms of any contract to which TransCanada PipeLines Limited ("TCPL") is a party and under which company has rights as shipper and which provides for firm transportation service on TCPL's natural gas transmission system, TCPL is to receive the first nomination of company stating the quantity of gas which company desires TCPL to deliver to company on such Day.

A Nomination (which term includes any revised Nomination) that is to be applicable to a particular Day shall be given not less than four hours before the TCPL Nomination Time applicable to the particular Day.

The first Day (the "Effective Nomination Date" of the Nomination) to which a Nomination given at a particular time shall apply shall be the first Day thereafter to which a Nomination given at the particular time could apply if it was given in accordance with this section, unless a later date is specified in the Nomination as the first Day to which the Nomination is to apply in which case that later date shall be the Effective Nomination Date of the Nomination.

Notwithstanding any failure of customer to give a Nomination as provided for in this Service Agreement, a Nomination shall apply to its effective Nomination Date and to each following Day in the Term until the first day thereafter to which a subsequently given Nomination applies. On any Day customer shall be deemed to have nominated to deliver gas in accordance with the Nomination applicable to such day.
