IX. Special Adjustments - Continued

6. System Reliability Adjustment Applicable to Firm Transportation Customers

All firm transportation customers who choose either the Load Following Service, Daily Delivery Service, or Daily Cashout Service shall be subject to a monthly system reliability adjustment (an addition or deduction), to the extent that actual firm transportation capacity costs retained for system reliability varies from the average firm transportation capacity costs included in base rates of 1.94 cents per therm. The actual average firm transportation capacity costs will be equal to: (a) the quantity of firm transportation capacity retained by the Company for system reliability multiplied by the weighted average cost of firm transportation capacity divided by (b) annual historical firm sales and transportation volumes for the twelve month period ending two months prior to the effective date of the surcharge. The actual firm transportation capacity costs for system reliability will be reduced by eighty-five percent of the revenue credit associated with capacity release for other than capacity freed up as a result of firm customers migrating to transportation on and after April 1, 1999.

The reliability adjustment shall become effective on the first calendar day of each month and be shown separately on the Statement of Rate to Service Classification No. 9.
