2. Regulations

a. Within the jurisdiction of Verizon in New York State or between jurisdictions of Verizon in different states.

- (1) Move charges based on estimated costs are applicable for moves of the existing equipment at the old location to the new location.

b. Between jurisdictions of Verizon in different states. (Cont'd)

(3) Where the customer elects a different payment period in the new jurisdiction

- (a) and the new payment period is available in the original jurisdiction, the following calculation is used to determine the number of remaining payment months in the new jurisdiction:

$$1. = 2. - (3. \text{ divided by } 4.)^*$$

1. the number of payment months remaining in the new jurisdiction at their current vintage rates, equals
2. the total number of payment months in the selected plan, less
3. the sum of the cumulative monthly "A" rate payments made in the original jurisdiction (monthly rate X number of months paid), divided by
4. the monthly "A" rate of the newly elected payment plan of the corresponding vintage in effect in the original jurisdiction.

- (b) and the new payment period is not available in the original jurisdiction, the following calculation is used to determine the number of remaining payment months in the new jurisdiction:

1. if a Lump Sum Payment is available for the payment plan of the corresponding vintage in the original jurisdiction, it is used to develop a theoretical payment plan with the same number of payments as the newly elected plan (present worth to an annuity). This will be used to determine the theoretical monthly "A" rate in the original jurisdiction (as used in Paragraph G.2.b.(3)(a) 3. above). The number of months remaining in the new jurisdiction is determined by using the process in Paragraph G.2.b. (3)(a) above.

* Number of months credit rounded to nearest lower whole number if a fraction results.
